

Let your dentist see your smile every year.

- Once a year, you should have a preventative oral exam, and your dentures should be checked for overall fit and for weak areas that may eventually crack or fracture.
- Dentures should not hurt. If your dentures cause soreness or irritation that persists, or if you notice a chip, crack or fracture in your dentures, call your dentist.
- As time passes, your mouth changes, and your dentures may become loose or unstable. This can cause chewing problems. Your dentures will need to be relined periodically and are recommended to be replaced every 5 to 7 years.
